Process Change NoticeAutomatization of appearance inspection and addition of a production location for PoC Inductor ADL2012

Regarding the appearance inspection of this product, we are currently performing manual inspection using a microscope.
To prevent human error during inspection and to meet market demands, we would like to introduce automated optical inspection (AOI).
Additionally, to ensure a stable supply of products and to reduce risks in the event of disasters, we would like to add a ferrite core supplier and establish a production site for this product in Korea.

We kindly request your approval for these changes. Thank you for your understanding and cooperation.
